Texts and Translations

1. A l'entrada del temps clar — eya Per j ia recomençar — eya
E per jelós irritar — eya
V l la regina mostrar Qu'el'es si amorosa
Refrain: A la vi', a la via, jelós!
Laissatz nos, laissatz nos Balar entre nos, entre nos.

1. At the beginning of the bright season, indeed, in order to be joyous again, indeed, and to annoy the jealous, indeed, the queen wants to show that she is so amorous.

Refrain: Hit the road, hit the road, you jealous!
Let us, let us, dance among us, among us.

2. El' a fait pertot mandar — eya Non sia jusqu'à la mar — eya Piucela ni bachalar — eya Que tuit non vengan dançar En la dansa joiosa.

2. She has had it announced everywhere, indeed, that, as far as the sea, indeed, there shan't be maiden nor young man, indeed, who shan't all come to dance, in the joyous dance. Refrain

3. Lo reis i ven d'otra part — eya Per la dança destorbar — eya Que el es en cremetar — eya Que m no li v lh emblar La regin' aurilhosa. Refrain

3. The king comes, indeed, to disturb the dance, indeed for he is in turmoil, indeed that someone would want to steal, the April Queen. Refrain

4. Mais per nient lo v l far — eya Qu'ela n'a sonh de vielhart — eya Mais d'un leugièr bachalar — eya

Qui ben sapcha solaçar La d mna saborosa. Refrain

4. But his toil is in vain, indeed, for she doesn't care for an old man, indeed, but for blithe young one, indeed, who would well know how to please the savoury lady.
Refrain

*5. Qui donc la vezés dançar — eya E son gent c rs deportar — eya
Ben p gra dir de vertat — eya Qu'el mont non aja sa par La regina joiosa. Refrain*

5. Whoever would see her dance, indeed, and her move her pretty body, indeed, could well say, by his troth, indeed, that she has no match in this world, the joyous queen. Refrain

Dame, a vous sans retollir - Guillaume de Machaut

*Refrain: Dame, a vous sans retollir Dong cuer, pensée, desir, Corps, et amour,
Comme a toute la millour Qu'on puist choisir,
Ne qui vivre ne morir Puist a ce jour.*

Refrain: Lady, I give to you without taking back
My heart, thought, desire,
Body and love,
As the best of all

That any could choose Or who can have lived or died
To this day.

*Verse 1 : Si ne me doit a folour Tourner, se je vous äour,
Car sans mentir,
Bonté passés en valour,
Toute flour en douce odour Que on puet sentir.*

*Vostre biauté fait tarir Toute autre et anientir,
Et vo douçour
Passe tout; rose en coulour
Vous doi tenir,
Et vo regards puet garir
Toute dolour.
(Refrain)*

So I need not turn to folly
If I adore you,
For without a lie
You surpass goodness in worth,
And In sweet perfume [you surpass] every flower that can be smelled.

Your beauty makes all others
Dry up and extinguishes them,
And your sweetness
Surpasses all [sweetness]; I must maintain You are a rose by your complexion, And your glance can cure Every pain.
(Refrain)

Verse 2: Pour ce, dame, je m'atour

*De tres toute ma vigour
A vous servir,
Et met, sans nul villain tour,
Mon cuer, ma vie et m'onnour En vo plaisir.*

*Et se Pit  consentir Vuet que me daigniez o r
En ma clamour,
Je ne quier de mon labour
Autre merir,
Qu'il ne me porroit venir
Joie gringnour.
(Refrain)*

Verse 2: Therefore, my lady, I offer myself
With absolutely all my strength,
To serve you
And place – this is no rogue’s trick – My heart, my life and my honour At your pleasure.

And if Pity wishes to allow
That you deign to hear me
In my complaint,
I do not ask from my effort To deserve anything else, For there could come to me no Greater joy.
(Refrain)

*Verse 3: Dame, ou sont tuit mi retour, Souvent m'estuet en destour Pleindre et gemir,
Et, present vous, descoulour, Quant vous ne savez l'ardour Qu'ay a souffrir*

*Pour vous qu'aim tant et desir, Que plus ne le puis couvrir.
Et se tenrour
N'en avez, en grant tristour M'estuet fenir.
Nonpourquant jusqu'au morir Vostres demour.
(Refrain)*

Verse 3 Lady, where my every refuge is,
Often I am in loneliness
To weep and groan,
And when you are present I grow pale Since you do not realise the passion
That I must endure

For you whom I love so much and desire
That I can no longer hide it.
And if you have no Tenderness for it, in great sadness It is finished for me.
Nevertheless, until death I remain yours. (Refrain)

*Ecco la primavera,
Che'l cor fa rallegrare,
Temp'è d'annamorare
E star con lieta cera.*

*Noi vegiam l'aria e'l tempo
Che pur chiam' allegria
In questo vago tempo Ogni cosa vagheça.*

L'erbe con gran frescheça E fior' coprono i prati,

E gli albori adornati Sono in simil maniera.

*Ecco la primavera
Che'l cor fa rallegrare
Temp'è d'annamorare
E star con lieta cera.*

Spring has come apace
To waken hearts to gladness; Time for lovers'
madness And to wear a happy face.

The elements together
Are beckoning to mirth;
In this delightful weather,
Delight pervades the earth.

The grass in fresh rebirth Helps meadows come a-flower,
And every branch and bower,
Is decked with kindred grace.

Spring has come apace
To waken hearts to
gladness; Time for lovers'
madness And to wear a
happy face.

Gram piant'agli ochi - Landini

Gram piant'agli ochi, greve dogli core Abonda senpre l'anima, si more

Per quest'amar' ed aspra dipartita; Chiamo la mort'e non mi vol udire;

Chontra mia voglia dura questa vita, Che mille morti mi convien sentire

Ma bench'i' viva, ma'non vo' sequire Se non vo', chiara stella et dolçe amore.

Gram piant'agli ochi, greve dogli core Abonda senpre l'anima, si more

Great weeping for the eyes, heavy pain to the heart
As the soul is filled, so it dies.

Because of this bitter and cruel departure
I call for death, but it will not hear me.

In spite of my desires, my life endures so that I would endure a thousand deaths.

But since I live, I will follow no one but you, shining star and sweet love.

Great weeping for the eyes, heavy pain to the heart
As the soul is filled, so it dies.

Weelkes Madrigals

Cold winter's Ice is fled and gone
And Summer brags on ev'ry tree;
The Redbreast peeps amidst the throng Of Wood-born birds that wanton be.
Each one forgets what they have been,
And so doth Phyllis, Summer's queen

Now let us make a merry greeting
And thank god Cupid for our meeting.
My heart is full of joy and pleasure
Since thou art here mine only treasure.
Now will we dance and sport and play,
And sing a merry roundelay.

Take here my heart, I give it thee for ever,
No better pledge can love to love deliver;
Fear not, my dear, it will not fly away,
For hope and love command my heart to stay;
But if thou doubt, desire will make it range,
Love but my heart, my heart will never change.

Monteverdi Madrigali guerrieri (anonymous poet)

Altri canti d'Amor, tenero arciero, i dolci vezzi e i sospirati baci, narri gli sdegni e le bramate paci quand'unise due alme un sol pensiero.

Di Marte io canto furibondo e fiero i duri incontri e le battaglie audaci. strider le spade e bombeggiar le faci fo, nel mio canto bellicose e fiero.

Let others sing of Love (Cupid), the tender archer, (let them sing of) the sweet charms and yearned-for kisses, let them narrate the resentments and the longed-for reconciliations, when one thought unites two souls.
I sing of Mars furious and fierce, (I sing of) the harsh encounters and bold battles. in my bellicose and fierce singing (song),
I make the swords clash and the torches explode.

Tu cui tessuta han di cesare alloro La corona immortal mentre Bellona Gradite il verde ancor novo lavoro,

Che mentre guerre canta e guerre sona, Oh gran Fernando, l'orgoglioso choro, Del tuo sommo valor canta e ragiona.

You, who has woven from Caesar's laurel the immortal crown, as Bellona (Roman goddess of war) enjoys again the greenness of new work as wars are sung and sounded,

O great Ferdinand (Ferdinand II, Roman Emperor) the proud chorus sings of your great valor and reign.

Altri canti di Marte - Madrigali amorosi Gian Battista Marino Madrigali amorosi

Prima parte

Altri canti di Marte e di sua schiera, gli arditi assalti e l'honorate imprese le sanguigne vittorie e le contese, i trionfi di morte horrida e fera. Io canto, Amor, di questa tua guerriera, quant'hebbi a sostener mortali offese, com'un guardo mi vinse, un crin miprese. historia miserabile ma vera!

Let others sing of the daring assaults and honorable undertakings of Mars and his troops, their bloody victories and contests, the triumphs of horrible and fierce death. I sing, Love, of this warrior maiden of yours, How many mortal injuries I had to sustain, how a glance conquered me, one lock of hair captured me. A sad story, but true!

Seconda Parte

Due belli occhi fur l'armi onde traffitta giacque l'anima afflitta, e di sangue invece amaro pianto (giacere) sparse lunga stagion l'anima afflitta. Tu per lo cui valor la palma e 'l vanto hebbe di me la mia nemica invitta, se desti morte al cor, dà vita al canto.

Two eyes were the arms in which pain lay for the afflicted soul, and instead of blood my afflicted soul shed bitter cries for a long time. You (Love), through whose valor my invincible enemy had the palm (victory) and the boast from me, If you awaken death in my heart, give life to my song.

In his position as a poet-composer working under royal patronage, Guillaume de Machaut not only met the requirements of his employers, but also seemingly allowed his courtly surroundings to inspire him artistically. While he was in the service of the itinerant John of Luxembourg, King of Bohemia, Machaut became acquainted with John's daughter, Bonne of Luxembourg, for whom it is believed he wrote his verse narrative poem with lyric insertions, the Remede de Fortune. Among the nine lyric poems of different forms inserted with musical settings into the Remede is the virelai (a genre Machaut preferred to call chanson ballade) "Dame, a vous sans retollir." The narrative of the Remede clarifies the generic history of the virelai as a dance lyric, and Machaut's jaunty musical setting of "Dame, a vous sans retollir" places this now elevated, courtly virelai in the tradition of the dance.

The Remede de Fortune charts the course of a young man's maturity in the rarefied sphere of courtly love. The general progression of the lyric insertions from the archaic lai to the more "modern" formes fixes musically reflects the young man's gradual understanding of love and integration into the society of his lady over the course of the narrative. Each of the nine lyric interpolations with musical settings is issued in response to some aspect of the situation in the narrative leading up to it: in the lai the young man expresses his innocent optimism and the joy of loving his lady, and later utters in a complaint his reactions to the joys and sorrows created by the allegorical figures Love and Fortune. Hope and Love accompany the young man to his lady's castle when en route he finds her amidst dancing and great festivities. She invites him to join the dancing, and asks him to contribute a song. The virelai, or chanson ballade (a term that Machaut preferred to use to describe lyrics in the form of the virelai--AbbaA, in which "A" is a refrain--and that implies a song intended for dancing), is the lover's response to his lady's request for a dance song.

Although monophonic, the musical setting of "Dame, a vous sans retollir" illustrates many levels of musical sensitivity. Machaut uses the protean rhythmic implications of imperfect tempus with major prolation to full effect, veiling the metric and rhythmic regularity traditionally reserved for popular dance music with unexpected syncopations and points of emphasis: this is now stylized dance music. Subphrases of unequal length underlie the balanced structure of the refrain. The single melody clearly delineates the firm "tonal" center on F, beginning on A and resting twice on G before concluding the refrain on F. The "B" section is five tempora in length and, constructed as two plus three tempora, continues the motif of unequal phrase lengths. Here Machaut emphasizes the home pitch F by beginning on the upper octave F (the registral high point of the song) and descending ultimately to a C, which forges a smooth "tonal" connection with the beginning of the refrain.
